Join our new Grades 3-5 program!

Students will explore the idea of community, hone their primary source analysis skills by examining records from the National Archives, and connect the Constitution to their lives.

This program enables students to:

- Understand what the Constitution is and why the United States has one
- Connect the Constitution to their own lives and communities
- Identify the three branches of government and some key functions they perform
- Analyze Primary Sources

(Bush Presidential Inauguration, 20 January 1989)

Or register at Connect2Texas.net to receive a free recording of the program after the live program.

Attachment A: Constitution Week Options

Teachers and caregivers: register your elementary students for a special presentation of the new We Rule: Civics for All of US programs on the Constitution, The Constitution Rules for grades K–2 and The Constitution and Our Community for grades 3–5! By participating in these live, standards-based, interactive webinars, students will be better able to:

- Understand what the Constitution is and why the United States has one
- Connect the Constitution to their own lives and their communities
- Identify the three branches of government and some of the key functions they perform
- Analyze primary sources

After registering, you will receive the connection information via email the week of the event along with a teacher guide with additional pre- and post- program activities to share with students.
