

ENVIRONMENTAL AWARENESS SERIES

Part 3: Why are there Wildlife Refuges?

Video made possible by Education Programs at the George H.W. Bush Presidential Library and Museum

Wildlife refuges are an important part of America's land use make-up. They provide areas for wild plants and animals to live safe and stable lives. Living there full time or making seasonal visits, many animals, such as migratory birds, beavers and red wolves, call wildlife refuges home.

Come join us as we explore wildlife refuges with a lesson, a create-a-creature activity, and a guided craft on designing a wildlife refuge. This video is S.T.E.A.M. based and student-centric.

This is the third of our Environmental Awareness Series. The upcoming topic is the Antarctic Protection Act.

President Bush goes for a hike on the Kaibab Trail at the Grand Canyon in Arizona, September 18, 1991.

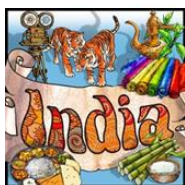

View for free at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=weTpqtfviHw> or

Register at Connect2Texas.net to receive a free recording of the program.

1. Create an account
2. Click on the Events tab and select George H.W. Bush Presidential Library and Museum, "Why are there Wildlife Refuges?"

Registration help: Contact Lori Hamm-Neckar at lhamm@esc11.net or 817-740-7156

Why are there Wildlife Refuges?

Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills

Science

Kindergarten: 2A, 2B, 2D, 2E, 3C, 9A, 9B

Grade 1: 2A, 2B, 2D, 2E, 3A, 9A, 9B, 9C, 10A

Grade 2: 2A, 2B, 2D, 2E, 3A, 9A, 9B

Grade 3: 2A, 10A

Grade 4: 2A, 3A, 3C, 10A

Social Studies

Grade 1: 5A, 5B, 10A, 11B

Grade 2: 5A, 5B, 8A, 9A, 9B

Grade 3: 3A, 3B, 3C, 7C

Grade 4: 6B, 8A, 18A, 18B

